

I am concerned that the FCC plans to make significant changes in policies that involve "public" airwaves without sufficient public comment or input. Additional analysis and at least a brief period for public comment are required before new rules are implemented. Also, detailed information on this critical should be fully disclosed and broadly circulated with ample time for review and comments.